BERLIN, Germany., August 10.—The wrath of the people of the Bavarian town of Memmingen on account of the high cost of Himburger cheese almost cost the local cheese dealer, William Rosenhaum, his neck. Rosenhaum had raised the price so high that only the wenithiest eithens could have cheese with their heer, while the poorer people had to go without. Today a big mob of men and women stormed Rosenbaum's store, dragged him out, placed a cord around his neck and paraded through the streets.

The excitement of the crow' grew as the procession went along until finally Rosenbaum was given a beating. Suddenly some one started shouting, "Lynch him! Hang him!"

And Rosenbaum was given the alternative of paying half a million marks to the city's poor or being lynched. Just then the police arrived and rescued the cheese dealer.

SPEEDERS TO FACE COURT ATTACHMEN FOR EVADING TRIAL

Flagrant Offenders Will Not Be Permitted to Forfeit Collateral.

VIGILANCE INCREASED TO ARREST VIOLATORS

Motor Corps Members Vested With Authority of Special Officers to Aid Police.

An agreement was reached today by Commissioner Oyster and the Police Court judges whereby motorists who flagrantly violate the speed law will be served with attachments compelling them to go to trial instead of forfeiting collateral.

When a driver is caught going one or two miles faster than the eighteenmile limit he probably will be permitted to forfeit collateral, if he so desires, provided there are no unusual circumstances to the case. Where the speeding is excessive or reckless, however, or where it is the second or third offense, and the driver fails to appear in court the next morning, the assistant corporation counsel will apply to the judge in the District branch for an attachment compelling his appearance.

Commissioner Oyster declared today that the Commissioners and the police intend to co-operate in every way with the Police Court in putting a stop to reckless driving, and that he appreciates the evident desire of the judges for such co-operation.

When the announcement was made that the navy yards would close

Officials of the International Asso-ciation of Machinists said today that the Washington navy yard thus far has not been as seriously affected by the reduction in forces as other navy yards in various sections of the country. They pointed out that the Norfolk yard has virtually been closed down, while at the Brooklyn yard 4,000 of the 10,000 employes have been

The schooner dropped anchor off Marcus Hook, below this city, last Sunday morning, and after remaining about two hours sailed around to Atlantic City. Yesterday customs officers ordered the captain to proceed to Philadelphia at once with the schooner, which he did.

No reason for the action of the customs officers was given out.

Will Market Securities.

The securities which are deemed good by the corporation, Mr. /Meyer stated, would have to be marketed gradually.

"Of course, we can't throw hundreds of millions of securities on the market," he said. "We would take them over temporarily and market them later, furnishing funds to enable the director general to adjust accounts with the railroads."

Senator Kellogg, republican, Minnesota, interjected that there was nothing in the funding bill relating to settlement of claims between the railroads and the government.

"It simply takes the railroad securities now held by the government and transfers them to another branch of the government to be sold," said Senator Kellogg.
